

Jenine Collett Parchmon

Senior Vice President, Comerica Bank

Accomplished leader with a diverse background established through 20 years of experience across the automotive and financial services industries with a focus on technology, strategy, and payments initiatives as well as managing large strategic programs.

Jenine Collett Parchmon is a Senior Vice President at Comerica Bank and leads the LIBOR Transition Program Office. Ms. Parchmon is responsible for managing a large, enterprise-wide initiative focused on IBOR reform and alternative reference rates for cash and derivative products.

During her nearly 15 years with the bank, she has worked in a variety of roles with increasing responsibilities, including: Domain CIO for Electronic Payments and Strategy Development, Director of Technology Strategy, Planning, and Innovation, Manager of Strategic Services, Product Manager for the Enterprise Payments Architecture and Payments Strategy Analyst.

Prior to joining Comerica, Ms. Parchmon worked for a Volkswagen Group of America company (gedas USA) for nearly six years, in a variety of technology roles primarily focused on supporting eMarketing initiatives.

She earned a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in management information systems from Oakland University in Rochester, Michigan and obtained an ITIL certification in service management from the Information Systems Examinations Board. She is also a graduate of Comerica's Leadership Development Program.

Ms. Parchmon supports a variety of organizations and is currently the statewide chair for Inforum's TechnologyNEXT industry group, Chair Emeritus of Comerica's Michigan Women's Forum and a member of the Michigan Council of Women in Technology. She is also a member of Alpha Kappa Psi and served as the student advisor for the Oakland University chapter from 2003 to 2010.

A proud metro Detroiter, Ms. Parchmon enjoys traveling, photography and spending time with family and friends.